

What NZCVS means to a village ...

Of 100 adults

71 adults didn't experience any crime over last 12 months

5 adults were the victim of fraud

3 adults were the victim of a threat

3 adults were the victim of cybercrime

3 adults were the victim of assault or robbery

2 adults were the victim of a sexual assault

On average there were:

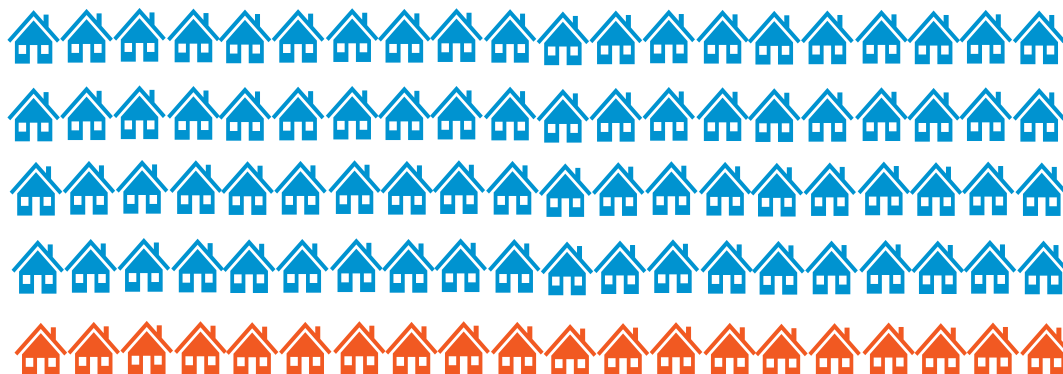

30 personal offences per 100 adults

The most common offence per 100 adults is a threat

Of 100 households

80 households didn't experience any household crime over last 12 months

12 households were the victim of burglary

6 households were the victim of a vehicle offence

On average there were:

32 household offences per 100 households

The most common offence per 100 households is burglary

With 100 criminal offences

68 personal offences and 32 household offences

Altogether, 23 criminal offences were reported to the Police

The most common offence reported is motor vehicle theft (82%)

The least common offences reported are fraud and cybercrime (7%)

Overall compared with the New Zealand average (29%)

- Māori people (37%) were more likely to be victims of crime
- Men (29%) and women (29%) were equally likely to be victims of crime
- People aged 65 years and over (18%) were less likely to be victims of crime
- People aged 20 to 29 years (40%) were more likely to be victims of crime

People living in the three major centres had about the same chance to be victim of crime (Auckland 29%, Wellington 33%, Canterbury 29%)